Building a sound wall - How to analyse Spelling errors

Dr Dahlgren will demonstrate how to build a sound wall with phoneme-grapheme cards and work through two writing samples to analyse spelling errors and discuss how to provide corrective feedback at the phonological and orthographic levels.

Learn interactive and engaging routines to explain the common patterns teachers need to know to teach decoding (reading) and encoding (spelling) effectively and efficiently.

Participants will be guided through how the six syllable types are combined to make up words in the English language and assisted to understand the schwa sound and why it makes reading and spelling so difficult.

Adding suffixes to words often causes a change in the spelling of the word, participants will be shown simple rules for doubling, dropping, and changing when adding suffixes.
